Official Paper of Lincoln Co.

A Singular Coincidence "I am not a fatalist," said T. Davitt Henning, "but occasionally I run across things that puzzle a great deal. Not long ago Dr. Tom Hewitt of Leadville, Colo., died. Hewitt was somewhat of a fatalist and believed in a great many ings that I didn't. Omens and harbingers of evil he was much given to believe in. You have undoubtedly heard stories of people dying and the clock stopping at the same time, or some numerical of its face popping out. Hew-itt had a sign in his office window in his residence which read, 'Dr. Tom Hewitt.' It was composed of 11 white letters glued to the pane. Hewitt took sick about 16 months since. A few days after his illness I noticed that one of the white letters had dropped off and was gone. The illness of the doctor caused the family to forget most everything else, and so the letter was not replaced.

"A month later Hewitt was still sick, and I noticed a second letter was gone. He lingered along, up and around now, and then sick again, for a period. Mean-time the white letters were not replaced. Month after month went by, and every eding month saw a letter disappear. Hewitt noticed it, and then he would not allow them to be replaced. After over 10 months of sickness, and when 10 of the letters had disappeared Dr. Tom got an extra severe spell of illness and died. The morning after his death I visited the house and noticed as I passed in that the last letter was gone."-St. Louis Globe-Democrat

Noise From a Tond.

It is a matter of common observation that the loudest sounds are not always made by the largest animals. The roar of the lion exceeds in sonorousness the cry of the elephant. Any one who had only heard without seeing a builfrog might well suppose that its fearful voice breaking the silence of the night must certainly come from the throat of an animal of formidable dimensions.

But perhaps the most remarkable case of vocal power in an animal is that related by a recent traveler in the high-lands of Borneo. He was informed by natives that they had heard a tiger roar-ing in the neighborhood. Such news is always startling to a stranger in the jungles of the east and hardly less so to the

An investigation was accordingly set on ot, which resulted in the discovery that the alarming roars had been emitted by a toad! This toad of Borneo, however, was by no means an ordinary mem-ber of the family. It measured no less than 14; inches around the body.

That the natives should not have recgnized the true source of the sound ws that the existence of such toads was either unknown to them, or that, at any rate, they had never discovered the remarkable vocal capabilities of the animals.-Youth's Companion.

Three Curious Words. Filibuster, freebooter and buccaneer are words emiously interrelated. The French and the English sea adventurers once made common cause against Span-ish settlements in the new world, and all three of these words came in time to de-scribe the rude sea soldiers who despoiled the Spanish main and the towns apon the coasts of the Spanish possessions. Filibuster is said to be the result of an attempt to make a French word of freebooter, and the English borrowed it back from the French because it sounded es frankly brutal than the English er was originally French in form, and it meant at first one who hunted the boucan or wild cattle and hogs of the West Indies; then one who made jerked meat of their flesh, and because this meat was used to provision the ships of the sea rovers, a fillbuster or freebooter.—New York Sun.

During a recent stormy day a gentle-man who had no umbrella, and who had just come into town by a local train, perceived before him as he stepped into the street a person whom he took to be an acquaintance, and who had a fine new umbrella hoisted over his head. Running up to him, therefore, he clapped Running up to him, therefore, he clapped him on the shoulder, saying as he did so by way of a joke, "I'll take that umbrella, if you please." The individual thus addressed looked round and disclosed a perfect stranger, but before the other could apologize he said hurriedly: "Oh, it's yours, is it? Well, I didn't know that. Here, you can have it," and broke away, leaving the article in the hands of the first party to the conversation. This narrative, which is strictly tion. This narrative, which is strictly true, affords a valuable hint to persons who may be caught out without protec-tion from the rain.—London Tit-Bits.

F. Z. Zeigler of Columbus, Pa., has a parrot named Dick that is considered one of the family and is perhaps one of the most intelligent birds of its species in the world. Dick always takes a hand in household matters. If Mr. Zeigler's in household matters. If Mr. Zeigler's son does not get up in the morning at the usual hour to go to the office, the parrot will say to the girl, "Call Clem," and he will insist on his command being obeyed. I recalled on one occasion when the family was earnestly discussing some local event Dick broke in as follows: "Papa, do you love mamma?" "Yes, of course I do," replied Mr. Zeigler, when the parrot blurted out, "Oh, you old fraud!"—New York Telegram.

The Nervous System. The average weight of the brain of an adult male is 3 pounds and 8 ounces; of a female, 2 pounds and 4 ounces. The nerves are all connected with it directly to by the spinal marrow. These nerves, together with their branches and minute ramifications, probably exceed 10,000,000 in number, forming a "bodyguard" outnumbering by far the greatest army ever marshaled.—Popular Science Monthly.

"What! Smoking, Fred? Thought our doctor told you it would kill you?"

English Whalebacks,

One of the novelties of the year in shipbuilding is the turret deck steamer built by W. Doxford & Sons of Sunderland, England, which is practically a modification of the whaleback type now largely used on the great lakes. In the only vessel of thi design yet built the hull is chaped like most other vessels from keel to water line, but from the water line the shell is rounded off upward and inward until it terminates at the upper deck level in an upright structure, misnamed a turret, running fore and aft. The vessel has no sheer, the deck reaching in a perfectly straight line fore and aft.

The plating, running inward from the water line to the turret deck is thick and strong like that of the hull proper, so that the whole skin of the vessel above and below is of the same thickness.

The engines are placed aft, as in whaleback steamers, so that from the engine room to the forecastle there is a long, continuous hold, interfered with only by the necessary bulkheads. The boat's accommodations for engineers and crew are all abaft the engine room, but the captain and officers are placed as usual under the bridge forward.-Chicago Inter Ocean.

The Smallest French Conscript.

The smallest conscript in France is Louis Bernadat of Luret, in the department of the Allier. This martial personage is barely 70 centimeters in height, which is just about 28 inches, or 2 feet 4 inches, in our measurement. Little Bernadat came of age this year and was summoned to draw his number out of the conscription urn like his fellows of the same age, and he gravely presented himself as bidden. At first, when his name was called out, it was thought he was some child who had been brought in and was told to answer as a joke. But on looking at him again it was seen that he was a dwarf with a slight mustache.

As the top of his head did not reach to the level of the table on which the urn was placed, a gendarme in attendance laid hold of him by the collar and lifted him up to draw his number. The father of this tilliputian soldier, who of course will not really be made to serve, is a well to do farmer, who is very fond of him and has refused several seductive offers from showmen who have wanted to exhibit him.-London Views.

Guests Only to Be Plucked. Lakewood, N. J., is eminently a resort of high pines and high prices. I was staying at a certain hotel at Lakewood, but happening to be at another one nearly every day during one of my leisure hours of the afternoon, I had formed the habit of getting shaved

One day the boss approached me with an air at once mysterious and apologetic, and said confidentially: "I beg your pardon, sir; I thought you were a guest of the hotel, and I have been charging you 25 cents a shave. That is my price to the guests only. In the future it will cost you only 15 cents."

The moral was so obvious that I smiled involuntarily. One uses snares to catch pigeons, but once caught one plucks them without remorse.—New York Her-

Another of the Innumerable 800 Gone. The death of Edward Beetham removes the last of the famous Light brigade who lived in Canada. The old man was a private in the Seventeenth lancers and went through the Crime war. He had a book presented to him by Lady Cardigan, containing his name, his regiment and the donor's name. He also had a letter written by the same lady as additional evidence that he was one of the memorable Six Hundred. He served in India and was at the relief of Lucknow, for which he received a medal. and he served in China as well. He commuted his pension seven years ago and came to Canada, but he has not been able to do much work, his long service in the army having broken down his constitution.-Toronto News. The Picture Is a "Hoodoo." The death of the young son of Henry E. Abbey recalls the fact that the picture on the act drop of the Broadway theater has been fatal to everybody concerned, to say nothing of the effect upon the handsome playhouse. The pretty young girl in the stagecoach is a portrait of the daugnter of T. Henry French, and she is dead. The dashing cavalier on the right is Matt Morgan, and he is dead. The boy in the foreground is a portrait of Manager Abbey's son, and now he is dead. The picture represents the reception of a foreign bride by the young dauphin of France, and the future of the bride and groom was greweome. It is a theatrical superstition that certain pictures are unlucky.-New York Metropolis. The Columbian Stamps.

If any one had doubts as to the good judgment of the government in iss the Columbian stamps, the report of the postmaster general should set them at rest. According to that official, the total increase of sales in January over the same month last year is more than 50 per cent. At 100 first class postoffices stamps to the value of $2,254,476 were sold in January, against $1,870,483 during the same period last year. Of the amount received this year from the sale of postage stamps $1,708,666 were for the Columbian issue, within $161,817 of the total sales in January of last year .-
